Winter 2020 Art-Making Activity Options

Crazy Hats

A hat is worn to cover the head for various reasons and is accessorized for self-expression. Drawing from Naufus Ramírez-Figueroa’s interest in how we are affected by the environment that surrounds us, participants in this workshop will customize hats using paper, textiles and more.

Building Worlds Together

Architecture is the design of structures and buildings. Artist Dawit L. Petros looks at how architecture influences the character of a place and its history. In this workshop, participants will construct a layered and three-dimensional cityscape or landscape using photographic images and drawing.

Take Care

One aspect of Rashid Johnson’s site-specific installation are tropical plants that inspire caregiving and a sense of community. In response, we will use textiles to create two (or more) wearable pins with words of affirmation. Participants are encouraged to keep one of their creations, and give the other pins to people in their family or community.

Your Life, Your Movie Poster

In Naeem Mohaiemen’s exhibition What we found after you left, film and other visuals go hand in hand to tell stories about family histories and national events. In this workshop, participants will create a movie poster, to highlight a memorable moment from your life using drawing and collage.
